PREFACE.

THE preparation of this history of the BIBIGHAUS FREUNDSCHAFT has been altogether a labor of love. The work was undertaken by Samuel H. Bibighaus in the hope of rescuing certain facts pertaining to the lineage from the danger of final loss. Some seven generations have arisen in this country belonging to this descent, and through marriage, removal to different localities, and other causes, no continuous family record, in many branches, has been preserved. To gather up the facts, including names, dates of marriages, births and deaths, changes of location, and other particulars, has required a considerable amount of labor and perseverance. In some instances these facts have been gleaned from family records, in others from the recollection of persons advanced in years, and in still others from church records, and from epitaphs engraved upon monuments and tombstones. Thanks are due, and are hereby tendered to Revs. Jacob Kehm and Frederick Waltz, of Sellersville, Pa., who have kindly placed the records of their respective charges in the hands of the compiler for examination, and also to the Rev. A. R. Thompson, formerly of Northampton Co., Pa., for personal assistance rendered in tracing out certain branches of the connection in that locality, and also to Revs. J. D. Miller, of Shippensburg, and A. Houtz, of Orangeville, Pa., for like favors. The compiler realizes that in this difficult work some facts may have escaped his attention, which should have been mentioned, and that some of the tables may need revision and possible correction, but as far as his knowledge extends, he has labored to make the work entirely trustworthy, and hopes that it may be of use to generations to come.

ELIZABETH WEAVER,⁹ born October 1, 1822. Died April 22, 1824.

Rev. HENRY BIBIGHAUS, D.D.,⁶ was born in Bedminster, Bucks County, Pa., August 2d, 1781. His father, Mr. John Bibighaus, emigrated to America from Witgenstein, Prussia.

The subject of this sketch grew up to manhood in Bedminster, and was married to Maria Sarah Zumstone on March 20, 1800. He became an organist and teacher, first in Northampton County, and afterward, in 1808, in the First Reformed Church, Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa., where he also studied Theology, with

Rev. Samuel Helffenstein, D.D., Sr. Upon the completion of his studies he was elected pastor of Salem Reformed Church, St. John Street, in 1823, and was licensed to preach the Gospel by the Synod of the Reformed Church, in session at Colesbrookdale, Berks County, Pa., on February 14th, 1824, of which body Rev. Frederick Herman was President, and Rev. John C. Guldin, Clerk. He was ordained to the ministry October 24, 1824, and the title Doctor of Divinity was bestowed upon him by Marshall College, at Mercersburg, Pa., in September, 1849.

The degree thus conferred upon him, indicates the fact, that he was a minister of more than average ability. His familiarity with the Sacred Scriptures was very marked. He seemed to have them entirely at his command, producing proofs from unexpected portions, always suited to the theme under consideration. His character is described as having been very saintly and reverend. As a teacher he daily instructed his pupils in the doctrines and duties of Christianity in such a way, that serious impressions were made upon them, which ripened into Christian character in after years. His winning address secured the affection of his scholars, and his consistent deportment united them to him in warm attachments, which lasted throughout life.

As a pastor he was equally honored and distinguished. His fruitful ministry in the Salem Church, lasting some twenty-seven years, until he was called to his everlasting rest, will always remain the noblest monument of his life. He was ever faithful in the work of ministering to his people; his eloquence in the pulpit was known far and wide, and his consistent life ever reflected the radiant example of his beloved Master, whose he was, and whom he served. He was called from earthly labor to his eternal rest, by the hand of death, on August 20, 1851. He was greatly lamented in death, even as he had been greatly beloved in life. At the time of his decease he resided in the family of his son Samuel H. Bibighaus, in the City of Philadelphia. His remains, with those of his wife, who had departed this life December 3, 1841, were interred in Laurel Hill Cemetery.

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."—REV. 14: 13.

DR. JOHN⁵ was born December 28, 1807, in Hanover township, Northampton County, Penna. In 1821 he lived with Dr. John G. Piper, of Mifflinburg, Pa., under whose instructions he was fitted for college. In 1829 he located in Middleburg, Pa., and soon obtained an extensive practice. His library was an extensive one, and with the medical journals he took, kept himself abreast of Medical progress. He was a kind-hearted, amiable and benevolent physician, a good neighbor, affectionate husband, and anxious parent. He was an active and devout member of the German Reformed Church at Middleburg, always laboring to advance the cause of Christ, and by his walk and conversation being a shining light in the Church. He died July 2, 1860, and was buried at Middleburg, Pa.

DR. CHARLES H.,⁷ was born in Bucks County, Pa., September 4, 1811. He commenced reading medicine under Dr. J. W. Gloning-er, Lebanon, Pa., after which he entered the Medical University at Albany, N. Y., from which he graduated, and received his diploma in 1834. He was a man of untiring zeal, a hard worker and a close student. Although he died in the prime of his life, he stood at the very top of his profession, and at his sudden death, being stricken down with the cholera after eight hours' sickness, he left behind a sorrowing family and a very large circle of friends and acquaintances, who felt that his loss could never be repaid. He died July 11, 1854, and was buried in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia, Pa.

Sally,³ } Died January 20, 1849.

Eliza Ann,⁴ born July 21, 1850. Died February 3, 1875. When about five years of age she was visited with a severe sickness which left her the victim of a nervous disorder. She was subject to spasms at intervals ever afterwards, and was a great sufferer in consequence, from which death was to be her only release. Unable to attend school, except a private institution, for some six weeks she was instructed by her mother at home. Although unable to read understandingly, she learned to copy words and sentences from a book or paper that might be at hand. She wrote a legible hand, and her little copy-book is filled with extracts from children's stories, Sunday-school hymns and Scripture selections. Owing to her bodily affliction her mind retained the characteristics of her childhood, and in her artlessness she ever remained to her parents and acquaintances a child even when attaining the age of early womanhood. Before her affliction was fairly seated in her system she was permitted to attend service and Sunday-school at the First Reformed Church, Fourth and Race Streets, of which the Rev. Dr. Bomberger was then the pastor, and where her parents were members. There she doubtless received the religious impressions, which, under the fostering care of her parents, developed into a loving faith and trust in our blessed Redeemer. As illustrative of the truth of this statement, we quote the following reflections from her little copy-book. Soon after writing these words she was called away from this earthly life, and, in view of her speedy departure to the heavenly world, they are to be regarded as very significant indeed. They are a rich legacy to those who were nearest to her in life, who sorrowed over her afflictions and mourned her loss.

"The Lord's people need a comforter (John 16: 7), for how much have they to render them unhappy. What with sin within them, the world without them and Satan constantly trying to distress and cast them down, they have enough to dishearten and distress them. Then there are the cares of business, the trials of the family, the oppression of the great, the sufferings of the poor, and the state of the Church, all combining to fill them with grief and sorrow. Under these circumstances human comforters are feeble and inefficient. God alone can impart the consolation needed. In order to meet the case, the Holy Spirit has condescended to assume the office of the comforter. He is intrusted with all the fulness of Jesus; He knows all the thoughts of the Father; He has examined all the stores of grace, and is perfectly acquainted with all the riches of glory, and with these He is to comfort the Lord's people. He knows every saint and every circumstance; He knows every foe and every temptation; He can gain access to the heart and He can impart the comfort we require. He turns the eye to Jesus; He excites in us confidence in God; He begets lively hopes of glory; He applies the promises; He sprinkles the atoning blood; He whispers peace; He teaches our hands to war, and our fingers to fight. Yea, He comforts us in all our tribulations, and so comforts us as to embitter sin, endear the Saviour and produce greater love to holiness. Holy Spirit, may we never quench Thy influences, grieve Thy love, or slight Thy intimations, but may we be led by Thee, be taught of Thee, and possess Thee as the earnest of our inheritance."

That she should have selected and copied these precious words on her own motion, without hint or direction from any one, is indeed remarkable. And the following, which seems almost like a presentiment, she handed to her mother on a slip of paper, only a short time before her decease. This was her final message to her earthly friends:

"I cannot show thee my home immortal. No earthly vision sees its light, its love. Come to the graveyard; therein lies the portal which soon will lead me to my home above. A little while, perchance a few days longer," and with this she bid adieu to earth.

Hon. THOMAS M.,⁹ was born in Philadelphia, Pa., March 17, 1815. After completing his schooling (1831) he commenced his studies in theology with the Rev. John C. Guldin, of Chester County, Pa. After some two years he entered the Theological Department of the German Reformed Church at York, Pa., to prepare himself for the ministry. After remaining two years his health became impaired, so that he had to leave the Seminary and return to the city. After recruiting himself for a short time he again returned to the Seminary to renew his studies, but, his health again failing, it was decided he must relinquish all ideas of entering the ministry. In 1836 he left the city for Lebanon, Pa., and assisted the Rev. W. Ernst in his academy for some time. He then entered the law office of Hon. E. P. Pearson, of Lebanon. After completing his studies he was admitted to the Lebanon bar. In 1850 he was elected by the district, with a large majority, a member of the United States Congress, which he served until the expiration of his time, and on the 19th of June, 1853, he died at the age of thirty-eight years, three months and four days, after a sickness of some four weeks. His friendly counsel and his effective encouragement, which were always extended to the needy and distressed, will now for the first time be sought in vain. The places that have known him will know him no more. Free from the racking pains of disease, he now sleeps in peace, preceding but a few years, at best, the many friends he has left behind him to mourn the void and the loss to the community his death has occasioned. When the dread summons shall come may we be as well prepared to go home as he was; he whose gain has been our loss.
